SCIENCE OF MAGIC

How do they do that?

Children in grades 2 and up will discover how magical science can be, and the science behind some basic magic tricks!

The Science of Magic program from Mad Science of New England focuses on challenging children to think logically, and therefore, scientifically, while observing magic.

“How did they do that?” will become the initial question that children will ask themselves, not only when watching a magic show, but also when simply observing the fascinating world around them.

Children’s natural curiosity provides the perfect stepping stone for understanding magic!
