

Auburn Public Library

Author Visit: Dr. Enoch Ukpung

About the Author

Dr. Ukpung was born in a little village in former Eastern Nigeria. Her educational journey began at the age of seven when she left her parents to live in Northern Nigeria with her brother, who would sponsor her education through high (secondary) school.

What followed were several years of hardship and sacrifice, which she overcame through her self-determination and faith. Joy Comes in the Morning is the inspirational story of how despite the difficult circumstances, she managed to not only accomplish her goal but live her dreams.

AUBURN PUBLIC LIBRARY

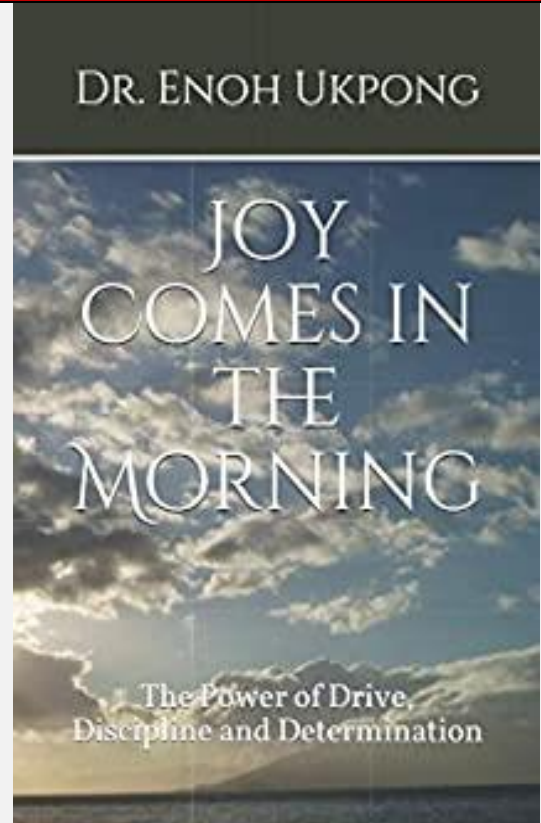

WHEN	Thursday May 19th
TIME	6:00pm – 7:00pm Including Q&A during the presentation
AGES	Adults and Teens *Dr. Ukpung has served as a college nursing instructor and student mentor for many years, developing a great rapport with teens and adults. All are welcome to hear her message!

Dr. Enoch Ukpong PhD, MSN, RN

‘Turning your Trial or Tragedy into Triumph’, Dr. Ukpung’s core message, will inspire, encourage, and uplift the audience through the genuine, joyous delivery of her message

Join us!

JOY COMES IN THE MORNING | The Power of Drive, Discipline and Determination

Register online or call or visit the Library | Author signing following the presentation

www.auburnlibrary.org | 369 Southbridge Street, Auburn MA | (508) 832-7790 | Dr. Jean E. Collins, Director